

On, June 7, 2022, Dr. Reggie Taylor was announced as the next superintendent for Owen County Schools. He has been a part of the Owen County School District for the last 9 years overseeing teaching and learning, federal and state grant programs, school and district improvement planning, and evaluation.

He started out his career as a teacher in Scott County Schools as well as LaRue County Schools before going into administration at both the school and district levels. He currently serves on the board for the Kentucky Rural Education Association as well as on various committees for the Kentucky Association of School Administrators.

Dr. Taylor received a Bachelor of Science in Marketing from Northern Kentucky University and a Master of Arts in Secondary Business Education from the University of Kentucky. He received his Rank 1 in Administration from Northern Kentucky University and received endorsements for Instructional Supervisor, Director of Pupil Personnel, and Superintendent from Xavier University. In December 2018, he received his Doctorate in Educational Leadership from Northern Kentucky University.

“I am humbled and honored that the Owen County Board of Education has the confidence in me to be the next superintendent of Owen County Schools, and I would like to thank them for the opportunity to serve our students, parents, staff, and community in this new role. In addition, I am excited to begin this new journey alongside each one of our stakeholders as we work together to serve our students, families, and community.”

Dr. Taylor is married to Carol Jo Taylor, who is the media specialist at Maurice Bowling Middle School, and they have one daughter, Olivia Taylor, who will be an 8th grader at the middle school. Dr. Taylor will begin his new role on July 1, 2022, and he will be working diligently, starting now, to make it a smooth transition.
